Description of the Activity:

The Department of Economics successfully organized the Intercollegiate Research Proposal Presentation Competition titled "KAIZEN – A Continuous Progress", highlighting the spirit of continuous improvement, innovation, and analytical rigor in economic research. The event served as a dynamic platform for budding economists to present research ideas addressing contemporary economic issues through theoretical frameworks and empirical insights.

A total of 13 enthusiastic teams from various reputed colleges participated in the competition. Each team showcased original research proposals spanning diverse economic themes such as sustainable development, fiscal policy, digital finance, labor economics, inequality, and macroeconomic trends. The presentations reflected a strong grasp of economic theory, critical analysis, and policy relevance—emphasizing the importance of evidence-based research in addressing real-world economic challenges.

The proposals were evaluated by Dr. Sujata Khadilkar, an esteemed economist and academician, who provided valuable and constructive feedback to all participants. Her insights not only helped refine the research methodologies of the students but also encouraged them to think critically about the economic implications and viability of their proposals.

Through events like KAIZEN, the Department of Economics fosters academic dialogue, promotes research orientation, and builds a culture of continuous intellectual growth among students—resonating with the Japanese philosophy of "Kaizen", i.e., gradual, consistent improvement.

Expenses incurred for the Activity: 3800 Rs.
